Available monthly bandwidth for email deployments must be confirmed by Markets Global before sending client's campaigns. If the necessary bandwidth is not available to complete a client's 30 day deployment cycle, then the client's order will take a priority position in the succeeding month. Client orders will automatically repeat month after month until cancelled by client or Markets Global. A nominal programming cost will apply to each 30 day deployment cycle. Markets Global will waive the programming fee when the required sales for the deployment Option chosen by the client has been reached in the previous month. Waived programming fees will provide ongoing monthly promotions for clients without monthly programming costs.

The promotional code 'Code One' and/or UPC (provided by client) will be placed in emails deployed on behalf of the client. (Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers can include as an alternative UPC Codes in emails.) Client must determine if completed sales came from emails deployed by Markets Global by matching the UPC and/or promotional code to the customers who complete sales. Client must also provide consumers with a promotional incentive in their email that encourages client visits and/or calls.

When customer sales, UPC's and/or promotional codes match, then the client pays a 1% fee to Markets Global.
